FRIDAY, JUNE 22

A story from Chicago, a few days ago, was to the effect that a certain individual had made a net profit of between two and three million dollars on the recent rise in the price of grain. This is a scandalous example of the speculation of the foodstuffs. Their claws are smeared with the necessities of life. He is a producer of nothing but unrest and unhappiness. Captain Kidd might be termed a respectable member of society compared to him who deliberately conspires to starve the man who will be helping him in the trenches to preserve the world's liberty and the fair name of democracy and their loved ones who are battling no less at home. Let Congress down the food pirate.

There are a number of speculators in Norway and Sweden who will soon feel the pinch of the embargo clause in the Espionage bill recently passed by Congress. This clause gives President Wilson authority to regulate exports to neutral countries. For many months it has been known that goods have been going from the United States to the two countries mentioned above, and from there they have been shipped to Germany. If this country can spare the goods there can be no objection to shipping them to Norway and Sweden beyond the amount shipped. Does not exceed their needs. However, this country is not looking after the needs of herself and allies and there is a strong probability that the neutrals will not be allowed to export a large amount of material from this country for some time.

Yesterday, a certain individual was heard, criticizing the donation made by a party to the Red Cross fund. The average man is more familiar with his own personal financial condition than the outside and certainly has no idea of what he can afford to give for any cause; no matter how worthy the cause may be. A man who stands around and "pokes fun" at the amount subscribed to worthy causes by other people, especially when he is not familiar with their personal affairs, has little to do.

It must be stated that the State-south of the Mason and Dixon line should be commended for the part they have played in subscribing to the Liberty Bonds and furnishing money for the American Red Cross Society. Just at this particular time of the year there is less money in circulation in the South than at any other season. The South has not been in a position to sell munitions, etc., to our allies and the money we have given for the cause is not excess profits but comes from deep down in the pocket. It is real patriotism.

CITY SPRINGS UP IN EASTERN BELT

Construction Company Establishes Headquarters—Tracks Near Completion and Houses to Go Up.

A new Columbia is being built six miles east of old Columbia. The new Columbia will have just as many inhabitants and possibly more. The Hardaway Construction company of Columbia, Ga., has been charged with the work of building the new city, which must be completed within the next 90 days.

The Hardaway company has opened executive offices on the ninth floor of the Union National Bank building and is now employing about 25 clerks and stenographers. Within the next ten days the executive offices will be removed to the camp site, contract for the construction of the buildings having already been awarded.

It is practically certain that work will begin on the construction of the many buildings within the next ten days. From 4,000 to 6,000 workmen will be employed by the company in erecting the buildings. The labor will be drawn from all sections of the South, so that no one section will suffer. Fifteen timekeepers will be required to care for the large number of workmen.

Provision will have to be made in Columbia and at the camp to house the large number of workmen. From this indication it seems practically certain that the Columbia cantonment will be the first to be completed in the United States. The first troops will arrive some time in September to begin training before being sent to the Western front.

The cantonment in the camp from Simons station has almost been completed and the shipments of lumber and other materials will begin in a few days. More than 100 carloads of material will arrive daily when work begins on the cantonment. The street along the line to the camp will be completed at an early date.

It is estimated that about $3,000,000 will be spent in making the camp ready for the reception of the new army. The water main from the city to the camp will cost $100,000. Columbia is already beginning to feel the impulse of the development work. The pay roll now is amounting to about $100,000 a week.

GERMANY STILL DERIDES US.

Koehnke's Zeppelin Repeats Charge of American Braggery.

Washington, June 18—Extracts from German newspapers reaching the State Department show that the attitude of Germany toward the United States is still one of derision. The efforts now being put forth by the American nation in an effort to accomplish the defeat of the German empire are derided as "the American game plan." The German press states that the American nation is in an effort to accomplish the defeat of the German empire by the use of force.

It is a striking fact that these reports have had of late quite an untoward tone which sounds strange to the ears of the American people. The second reason is that the American people above all else are a sensational people. Through a pure love of boasting they lean toward exaggeration. A few ciphers to the figures regarding armaments, enrolling of troops and the building of ships; and when it is added to this an opportunity to bluff and intimidate the enemy the exaggeration knows no bounds.

BELGIUM INSPIRED BY OUR WAR ACTION

And Gives Special Praise to Hoover for Relief Work—Will Address the Senate Tomorrow.

Washington, June 20—Baron Moncheur, head of the Belgian War Mission, today expressed to the American people, through the Washington correspondents, Belgium's deep gratitude for America's "generous outpouring of material assistance and sympathy." He paid a special tribute to Herbert Hoover for his "Belgian relief work."

"The purpose of our visit to this country," said the Baron, "is to express our Government and people's heartfelt gratitude to Belgium for the generous outpouring of material assistance and sympathy which have gone so far to save my stricken countrymen from the horrors of famine, and to maintain their unshaken courage in this hour of trial."

"Our warm gratitude to you is this help will never cool, but you are now adding still more to our debt of gratitude. You have saved my people, saved from famine, still greater the debt of gratitude to the world none have ever had a more flaming love of liberty than those of Belgium, and this makes their suffering the more acute. Your entry into the war not only brings us the satisfaction of finding in an old friend a new ally, but it gives us complete confidence in an early and victorious issue of the great struggle which has brought to my country so much of misery and suffering."

"Our admiration for your decision in entering the war is all the greater because we know that you did so in the knowledge of all its horrors, and waited fully the sacrifices you will be called upon to make, the tears that will flow, the inevitable hardships and sorrows that will befall your homes. This shows us, as nothing else could, the determination of your country to see that when peace comes it shall be an honest peace, one that can last, and one that will bring freedom and happiness to all nations."

"In paying my country's gratitude to you, I am happy to be able to pay a tribute of admiration and affection to Mr. Hoover, under whose able and untiring direction the great work of relieving Belgium was carried on. We rejoice for you that a man as eminently fitted by ability and experience should be at your service in handling the great food problem that confronts you."

"From being one of the foremost industrial nations of the world, Belgium has been reduced to a state of utter helplessness. The fourth among exporting countries, Belgium for the time being has been ruthlessly wiped out. Her factories are closed. With cold calculation for the ruin of the country, the invader has even removed the machinery from our factories and ship yards. The result is that the Belgian people are now facing a complete economic annihilation. And, worst of all, a part of Belgium's unoffending population has been driven from their homes and sent to toil in Germany under a system that would have offended the moral sense of the Middle Ages."

"But this is only a passing phase. Belgian confidence and courage have never wavered. On the day of delivery, our industry will be revived. We heard 'and on that final day of victory the friendship of our two peoples, purified in the fire of suffering, will emerge stronger and stronger than ever and unite us in even stronger bonds than shall, God willing, never be broken."

Baron Moncheur will address the Senate Friday to express gratitude for what the United States has done for Belgium. The invitation was extended to him by Vice President Marshall, and accepted as an opportunity to give a message to the American people. The mission went quickly and was a "victorious" training camp at Fort Myer.

he said are put down in a water barrel and covered in a little deeper than the spring crop. Frequent shallow cultivation is necessary for good results.

Potato bugs are usually very destructive to the second crop, and often destroy the young plants as soon as they come up. If the plants are sprayed often with a mixture made up of one pound of arsenate of lead and four pounds of stone lime in fifty gallons of water the bugs will not be so destructive. If they are sprayed with bordeaux, arsenate every ten days or two weeks they will not be troubled with either bug or blight. The bordeaux mixture will keep the foliage in a healthy growing condition.

SUFFRAGE FLAGS TORN TO PIECES

Tear Diligent Banner From Women's Hands and Destroy Unpatriotic Canvas.

Washington, June 20—The peaceful picking of the White House grounds by silent sentinels of the suffrage caused to the first disorder today when a crowd of angry men tore down the banners the women were holding for the Russian mission to see when it visited President Wilson. The rumpus was over before the police got on the scene and no arrests were made.

The banners were inscribed: "President Wilson and Envoys Rote are defying Russia. They say: 'We are a democracy. Help us with a world war so that democracy may survive.'"

"We, the women of America, tell you that America is not a democracy. Twelve million women are denied the right to vote. President Wilson is the chief opponent of their national enfranchisement. Help us with this war really free. Tell our government that it must liberate its people before it can claim free Russia as its ally. 'Let's war' it down!" the crowd yelled.

The banners attracted groups of men passing, who stopped and discussed them. Finally, discussion gave way to action.

Cries of "Traitors!" "Treason!" and "They are enemies of their country!" were shouted at the two women holding the banner and after a yell "Let's war" it down!" the crowd jumped forward, the canvas was torn from fastenings leaving the suffragists holding the frames and poles.

One of the White House police urged a man who, he said, was leading the crowd. The man was Walter S. Timmons of New York, a electrical engineer. The policeman recovered a banner from Timmons out it was beyond repair, so the suffragists contented themselves with holding the damaged frames aloft in evidence of their "martyrdom" as they then expressed it.

The torn banner was carried by Mrs. Mary Burns of New York and Mrs. Lawrence Lewis of Philadelphia of the executive board of the National Woman's party. They stood at the west end of the Pennsylvania side of the White House and unfurled it just a few minutes before the Russian mission was driven into the grounds. Members of the mission paid attention to it.

Part of this cotton was held from 1914, when prices were between 6 and 7 cents per pound.
